This Thanksgiving, the St. Vincent de Paul Societies of Our Lady of the Gulf and St. Clare churches combined forces with the Hancock County Food Pantry to serve needy families within the county.

On Monday, Nov. 24, a long line formed outside the Food Pantry at 306 Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis as volunteers passed out paper bags filled with food and other items for Thanksgiving. Volunteers passed out these Thanksgiving "bas-

Free Thanksgying dinner open to all today in the Bay

BY SHANNON JENKINS Staff Writer

Every year before around early November, one Bay St. Louis woman hits every grocery store from Waveland to East Biloxi in order to offer a free dinner for the community at Thanksgiving.

Sally Kelly said she asks the stores for donations, and store representatives usually give her gift certificates ranging from $10 to $20.

She then buys food and prepares a massive meal with the help of her family and other volunteers for a Thanksgiving feast at the American Legion, located off Highway 90 and Green Meadows Boulevard in Bay St. Louis. The dinner will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Nov. 27.

Everyone is invited," Kelly said. "It's not just for the needy.'

The dinner includes sliced turkey with gravy, stuffing, mashed potatoes, salad, a vegetable, dessert and iced tea, coffee or milk.

Kelly said the meal is free to all communities and serves individuals and large and small families. Guests may dine in or carry out.

The free dinner began about 18 years ago when Kelly's daughter and son-inlaw, Beth and Cecil Scarbrough, decided to give back to the community.

The Scarbroughs once owned Mr. C's in Bay St. Louis but have since closed the doors.

Last year, Kelly said about 300 people were served. She hopes to serve about 350 people this Thanksgiving.

"It's nice to be with other people if you are away from home or don't have a family," she said.

Spotlight On Dining 2003 Attention Restaurant Owners... Advertising is an investment in the success of your restaurant. Every restaurant has competition, either within the town, or nearby city. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and dine elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their dining habits from one restaurant to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your restaurant.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business grow-

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your restaurant. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know what specials you are offering, perhaps what entertainment you may have and the character of your restaurant.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast. Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. In fact, it's the opposite. Some of America's biggest, wealthiest and so-called "progressive" places are the stingiest in terms of the percentage of their charitable giving, while America's smallest, most conservative and less affluent states tend to be the most generous. first this year, followed close-

Every year the Catalogue uses tax return data to compile what is called the "Generosity Index" - a ranking taking average incomes of the 50 states, and scoring them according to what percentage of those incomes goes to charitable donations.

Jindol had been endorsed by some leading black state Democrats, especially New Orleans' Mayor Ray Nagin. In the end, he evidently failed to pull the black vote he expected. At first Blanco's known conservatism did not generate a strong black Democratic support (in the October open primary she barely won a runoff spot), but in the closing weeks of her race with Jindol, Blanco went back to base Democratic Landrieu did in 2002. Louisiana Senior Democratic Sen. John Breaux, though regarded as a swing vote in the U.S. Senate, weighed in for Blanco by coming down and whipping the Louisiana Democratic party into a viable force, under an effective state director.

Some have criticized Ronnie Musgrove for distancing himself too much from his party affiliation. But there's a key difference here: He didn't have an organized Democratic Party in Mississippi how money, structure to depend on in Mississippi.

National Democrats underestimated Blanco's chances, and other than sending money gave her little help. Her prime strategist and mentor was Louisiana's other female star, Sen. Landrieu.

Some national commentators, in light of Landrieu's role as a key figure behind the Louisiana Democratic surprise are now saying that Landrieu has substantially elevated her stature as a force in the U.S. Senate.

Inevitably Louisiana and Mississippi side-by-side states, having many demographic similarities, the question arises:

How was it Republican Haley Barbour, a guy who had been away from Mississippi for two critical decades while this longimpoverished state struggled and lifted itself closer to the national economic and social midstream, be elected and Jindol, a bright new GOP star could not?

From the get-go before Barbour landed back in the state a year ago to officially begin his gubernatorial bid, it was clear to me that he would come equipped with already-honed political skills and the best financial resources of anyone to hit the state's political stage. Never before had we seen

Barbour's Obviously state flag gambit pulled to the polls thousands of white voters who otherwise would have stayed home or found little other reason to vote for him.

Which brings me back to Blanco's win in Louisiana. She pulled it off without even the slightest reference to the fact that Jindol, of Asian descent, was nonwhite.

We can take a lesson from our Louisiana neighbors if we're going to claim to be a "new" Mississippi.

ry record of giving, I know Mississippians are truly thankful to God, to America and to each other on this and every Thanksgiving. We've been through some rough times throughout our history. Yet, together our common values have helped us work through our challenges, and to have a greater thankfulness of where we are today. It is our roots in faith, family and in freedom that have helped sustain us, protect us and make us America's most generous state. I believe these values give us prospects for the brightest future, too. Mississippi's giving spirit and strong values are not merely good attributes, but solid assets that we can use to build our state and finally reach our potential, helping us to improve com-jobs. I needn't tell you what that help us appreciate what munities and create new states ranked near the bottom of the Generosity Index. Suffice it to say they are all a wealthier loť Mississippi, and they are proud of it, too. They are places with plenty of folks who look down on our values. Yet, people in those places could learn a lot from Mississippi - America's most generous state - about Thanksgiving. We could show them from whence America's blessings come, how to really be thankful for what we have as a nation and to give back to it. Maybe one day so-called "compassionate," "sophisticated" people in all those "progressive" places will reverse roles and, for a change, take their cues a bunch from Mississippians. Maybe one day millions of Americas will put a bit more emphasis or those tried and true values

Association raises money for USM cancer patient

The Association of Office Professionals (AOP) hosted a bake sale Oct. 22 to benefit Lisa Meredith, a senior nursing student at The University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast, who was recently diagnosed with stage-3 breast

A total of $260.54 was raised during the bake sale and was donated to Meredith's account at the USM Federal Credit Union.

When AOP members heard of Meredith's diagnosis, they decided that the bake sale would be a good way to honor and assist her, AOP

Director Vicki Watkins said. "I'm proud of our AOP members and the university community for helping make the bake sale a success, and I'm equally as grateful to have been a part of this effort to help a student in need," Watkins said. "This bake sale is just part of the AOP's mission to serve the community." AOP would also like to Meredith, who would have been a senior nursing student this year, was diagnosed with stage-3 breast cancer in July and started treatment in August.

In her plan to become a registered nurse, Meredith chose to make studying her primary focus during nursing school and was not employed full time. This choice left her without medical insurance, and due to other roadblocks she is currently unable to secure state assistance. The Student Nurses. Association has set up an account at the USM Federal Credit Union in her name for those who would like to make a donation. The credit union is located at 730 East Beach Blvd., Long Beach, Miss., 39560. Donors can also contact the Credit Union by calling (228) 867-8786 to transfer

SSC to host annual Academic Competition for Excellence

St. Stanislaus College will host the 13th Annual Academic Competition for Excellence (A.C.E.)Saturday, Dec. 6, according to Brother Ronald Hingle, SC, Principal.

The annual competition aims to foster and recognize the academic talents of some of South Mississippi's brightest elementary and junior high school students in the disciplines of math, science, social studies, English, and computer literacy.

Schools from across the Mississippi Gulf Coast and as far north as Hattiesburg are invited to select two students from each grade to compete in each subject area. The competition is limited to 500 participants.

St. Stanislaus College is a Catholic residency and day school for young men in grades 6-12. The school fosters character formation and integrates faith development within a curriculum which is primarily college preparatory.

The smell of food that nearly knocks you over when you walk through grandma's door.

The flurry of greetings and kisses that mingle with the squeal of kids.

The playful slap of your mom's hand as you sneak a sliver of turkey.

The stories you've heard since birth but never seem to get old.

The feel of your little cousin's squirming hand as the family says grace.

The way your dad looks more like your grandfather each year.

The unwritten rule that you must try a tiny piece of all ten desserts.

The post-dinner rush to the best napping positions.

The sounds of cleared plates amidst ringing laughter.

And the knowledge you'll do it again next year.

the festivities planned:

• A Music Tent at the corner of Market & Second Streets will feature area School & Church Choirs singing Carols throughout the evening.

· Local musicians will perform at various locations around the town as well. The public is invited to join groups and sing-along with the Christmas Carolers.

• This is a joyous and festive occasion, with the Merchants (most of whom members of the Merchant's Shops. Among Chamber of Commerce) decorating their shops for this annual event with the anticipation of receiving awards for their decorations.

• The Grand Prize drawing will be held at 8:00 p.m. Santa's Secret Shop at 209 East Second Street in the Benchmark Office Building. Children up to 12 years old can purchase gifts. "Shhh", their shopping is in secret.

 Local school & civic groups are participating in Christmas in the Pass with booths as fund-raisers, offering delicious foods and drinks to purchase at various locations throughout the downtown.

· Our local restaurants will be open serving their full menus as usual.

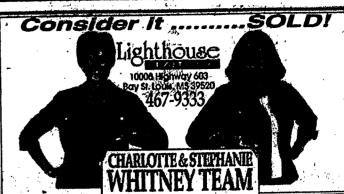

• Browse the beautifully decorated merchants shops offering: pottery, porcelain china, fine jewelry, art and art supplies, handmade children's clothing, gifts, garden art, Christmas décor needlepoint and quilt-makdesigner clothing, antiques and many other possibilities for gifts. The Lighted Boat

Parents ask Dr. Ginger Wishik, child and adolescent psychiatrist—

"If manic depression runs in my family, could it affect my child?"

Today this very serious medical condition is called bipolar disorder, and there can be a genetic connection. But in children, bipolar disorder is not diagnosed very often. It can resemble attention deficit hyperactivity disorder or other conditions. However, there's nothing subtle about the warning signs in kids with bipolar disorder, believe me...they exhibit extreme hyperactivity, including non-stop talking. They don't seem to need much sleep, and show an energy level significantly beyond normal-these symptoms combined with mood swings, irritability, sadness, or thoughts of death. Bipolar disorder is a medical condition like high blood pressure. A physician must make the diagnosis and prescribe medication and therapy. Be sure to ask for help if you have concerns about your child's behavior. We're glad to send you information, call us now or anytime. We always have a counselor available to help you.

1943 Takes 11 months for Bay soldier to receive KC Christmas gift

TEN YEARS AGO November 21, 1993

Hancock County schools superintendent Myrna Bourgeois told school board members Tuesday the "School for Success," the school system's alternative education program, is ready to begin Nov. 29 with a ceremony at 10 a.m. Bourgeois said the program is starting with a "bare-bone budget" in the old principal's home as Vo-Tech students work on another building for the school. Bourgeois said the building has a "good atmosphere" and is "a sense of home life."

-The City of Bay St. Louis recently paid off a general obligation bond that will save the city over $200,000 in interest rate charges. The G.L Water and Sewerage bond, taken out Nov. 1, 1984 with a call date of Nov. 1, 1999, was accruing interest at a rate of 9 1/8 per cent. On Nov. 4, the city paid the principal amount of $685,000 plus $30,758 in interest for a total payoff if $715,758.

TWENTY YEARS AGO November 17, 1983

Construction of a $6 million

Diamondhead factory outlet mall is expected to begin in four to six months, a developer told the Hancock County Board Supervisors a Monday morning hearing. Gene Yelverton of Jackson, the developer, said the factory outlet concept is relatively new, but based on its reception on other areas, will draw bargain-hunting tourists and employ an average of 200 people annually in sales positions. The Diamondhead mall will be located on some 20 acres in the southwest quadrant of the community's I-10 interchange. Yelverton said the acreage will be purchased for $18,000-per-acre both from the Gex family which owns property surrounding the interchange and Purcell, Inc. the prime developer of Diamondhead.

-Teachers have apparently lost their battle to persuade the Bay St. Louis Municipal School District Board of Trustees to begin school next year before September. Monday, the trustees took no action in response to requests from several teachers to change the starting date back to August. Because state law requires teachers to be in class with students at least one day in a month their contracts start, September starting date means that teachers face a two-month period between paychecks in summer.

I say cool season, but today's dianthus are a far cry from the ones we used to call pinks. Today by virtue of hybridizing species, they are tough from the standpoint of both cold and added-heat tolerance. This hybridization brought together species from China (chinensis) and Southern Europe (barbatus) for a great new plant.

The Bay High Tigers ran away with two games against the Stone County Tomcats on Tuesday. November 25. The Lady Tigers won the first game 82-49 while the boys claimed victory in the nightcap 80-55.

The Lady Tigers (5-3) used a swarming defense and balanced scoring to dismantle the Lady Tomcats. Bay High head coach Debbie Triplett stated, "We committed only turnovers during the game. When we are able to take care of the basketball, it allows us to do so many things. We had five players scoring in double figures. Stone County had some problems with our press defense. Our defense allowed us to get some things going in the transition game."

SPORTS

The Lady Tigers bolted to a 16-5 lead by the end of the first period. The period came to a close with pickpocket defense by Crystal Skretching who flipped a stolen ball out to Felicia Thomas in transition for the easy layup.

The Lady Tigers ran their offense well in the second period as they outscored the Lady Tomcats 36-17 to make the halftime score 52-22. Bay High ran off a 19-4 run in the final 1:48 before halftime to seal the game.

Thomas ended the final second of the game much the same way the first 39:59 was played. Thomas nailed a basket at the buzzer for the 82-49 win. Thomas finished the game with 23 points, 5 steals and 4 assists. She shot 3-for-5 from beyond the arc. Crystal Skretching had 11 points to go along with 6 steal and 6 assists. Kendra Reed and Whitney Gladney each had 14 points while Destiny Porter added 13 points.

In the boys game, George Easley was on fire from the opening shot. He nailed a trey in the first few seconds of the game and the Tigers never looked back. He scored nine points in the first period and finished with 28 for the game on 6of-13 from downtown. The Tigers led 18-13 at the end of the first period.

Singleton Marquez found his groove in the second 'period and kept the Tigers (4-2) ahead at halftime 38-32 with his three shots from outside.

The onslaught continued in the third period as the Tiger defense stepped up their game and doubled the difference in the score. Bay High led at the end of three periods 55-43.

Bay High head coach Alan Lumpkin commented, "We shot the ball very well in the game tonight which helped us out in the first half. We challenged the players on their helpside defense at halftime and they stepped up their play in the second half. We have also worked on taking better care of the basketball and tonight we only had 11 turnovers. That has been a plus for us in the last three games.'

Easley led four Tigers in double digits with 28 points followed by Singleton with 19 points. Singleton nailed 4-of-6 three-point shots in the game and also had 4 assists. Javon Williams had 11 points and 8 rebounds. Lorenzo Lewis chipped in 10 points, 8 assists and three steals. for Bay High.

Kiln youth wins Congressional Award medal

The Congressional Award Program is about challenge. This award began as a bipartisan effort in both Houses of Congress initiated by Senator Malcolm (Republican Wallop Wyoming) and the late Congressman James J. Howard (Democrat-New Jersey) to challenge young Americans to challenge themselves.

Congressional The Award Act (Public Law 96-114) was signed into law by President Jimmy Carter on November 16, 1979. This award was established as a private-public/partnership. which receives all funding from the private sector. It is the only United States Congressional award given to America's youth.

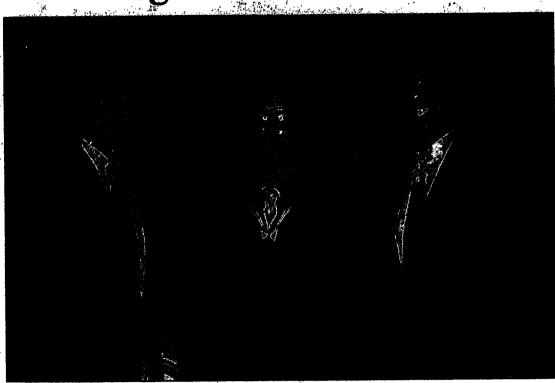

It is voluntary and noncompetitive and awards are earned not won. The program recognizes youth who set and accomplish goals in four program areas. These areas are volunteer public service, personal development, physical fitness and expedition/exploration activities. The minimum age to earn an award is 14 and the goals set must be accomplished by their 24 Th. birthday.

There are six levels of this Award: Bronze, Silver, and Gold Certificates and Bronze, Silver, and Gold Medals. The time spent on one award is cumulative and can be carried with the participant to the next level. In order to qualify for the Certificate Level, a designated minimum number of hours are required: Bronze (60), Silver (120) and Gold (180).

The over all minimum number of hours is an accumulation of hours required in each of the four program areas. The Bronze, Silver, or Gold Certificate must be earned in a minimum of six. months.

mum hour requirements for the 4 program areas are Bronze (200); Silver (400); and Gold (800). The minimum amount of time required to complete the Medal Level Awards vary with the level: Bronze seven months; Silver - 12 months; and Gold - 24 months.

In order to earn this award, each youth works with an adult advisor. Together they set individual goals and decide on the activities to achieve this goal.

Congressional The Award is an excellent opportunity for the young person to work with adults who have certain skills and valuable knowledge they are willing to share.

Advisors and validates are chosen by the youth. The role of the advisor is to review The Congressional Award requirements and guidelines, help set goals that are worthwhile, measurable, challenging, achievable, and fulfilling. They approve the goals and activ-prganization and planning

tors as soon as those goals

Once all the goals are achieved for the particular level you are striving, the advisor reviews the record book and signs the cover to certify that the requirements have been met. Advisors can be teachers, coaches, Scout Masters, and club and civic leaders.

The validator depends on activities chosen. Knowledge and experience in the activities chosen should be a major consideration when asking a person(s) to be a validator. They should discuss the goals for the specific activities, how they are to be documented, and measured.

They are responsible for deciding the starting level on a particular activity, reviewing the record book and signing the book when the goals are achieved. This award offers young people the opportunity to set a personal goal and \mathbf{meet} that goal. Responsibility, goal setting, encourage the youth to ments. These give the youth the future.

Hancock County 4-H was honored to have a recent Congressional 🕜 Award Bronze Medal recipient -Joshua Ladner, the 16-yearold son of Mr. and Mrs. Brian Ladner of Kiln. Joshua belongs to the Horns and Hooves 4-H Club

The projects that Joshua chose to meet the public service requirement included working with his local 4-H club and the CYO group at his church. Training horses and working with 4-H fulfilled the personal development criteria.

FORTY YEARS AGO November 21, 1963 "Well, it took five years but I finally made it," said Bay High football coach Lance Lumpkin.

After three conference championships and two second places in five years of competition Lumpkin was named coach of the year by secret vote at the annual meeting of officials of the Gulf Coast Athletic Conference Monday night in Stone High School in Wiggins.

Superintendent McCullouch, vice-president, attended. Bay High's end, Billy Thomas, was named all-conference lineman which means the coaches considered him the best lineman in the conference. He, his brother Jerry, tackle, and center Al Ladner made the all-star team.

Thomas is the fourth Tiger to be named all-conference lineman in the five Hancock-Pearl River line years of the conference's existence. In 1959 it was Jim Mayfield, 1960 Woody Allison and last year Billy's brother Teddo Thomas.

-Otho Rester was reelected chairman of the Hancock County Soil Conservation District commissioners at their meeting Now. 18 at Rester's home in Leetown.

Other officers named were; Frank Lee, treasurer, County Agent O.W. Swords, and W.J. Pippin, vice-chairman. Other members present were Frank, Shaw, Crane Creek, Cornelius Favre, Kiln, Hugh Sanford, SCD Supervisor, and Mark Dunnam, technician were visitors.

Shirley Jones performs at Casino Magic BSL

SEA COAST ECHO veryone's favorite TV mom Shirley Jones is set to perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Friday and Saturday, Nov. 28-29 at 9 p.m. Tickets may be purchased for $14.95, $19.95 & $24.95 through the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ficketmaster Outlet.

The Shirley Jones story is the quintessential American Cinderella story. Jones was born in 1934, in Charleroi, Pennsylvania and named after Shirley Temple. Immediately following her graduation from high school, Jones was spotted by a scout photographer for the coveted Miss Pittsburgh Beauty Pageant. She competed and won the title and others before being awarded a scholarship to the famed Pittsburgh Playhouse. Following her apprenticeship at the playhouse, Jones borrowed a mere $160 from her father to move to New York City, promising to return home when the money was gone. That day would never come.

learned that Jones replacement try-outs for the chorus of "South Pacific" were underway at the St. James Theater and decided that the try-outs would be as good as any for her first professional audition.

She arrived at the theater to find over 85 girls scrambling for a place in line. Fifty-one girls later, it was Jones's turn.

Oscar Hammerstein." She waited and sang, and the stage lit up. For Shirley Jones the struggle was over. Her first stage appearance was as one of the nurses in that same Broadway musical "South Pacific." Rodgers and Hammerstein then rapid-fire for the nation's graduated their fresh discovery to a leading role and a national tour in their new musical "Me and Juliet". It was during this tour that preparations for the movie version of "Oklahoma!" began in Hollywood.

to sing for his associate, Mr. contenders, Rodgers and Hammerstein arranged for young Shirley Jones to interrupt her tour to fly to Hollywood for a screen test and the rest is Hollywood history.

The movie follow-ups to the "Oklahoma!" came like new girl-nextdoor. Jones starred opposite some of the biggest names in the business in "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," "Bedtime Story," "The Happy Ending," "The Cheyenne Social Club," "The Music Man" and of course, "Carousel" in.

for Best Supporting Actress for her powerful portrayal of Lulu Bains in the ageless American classic "Elmer Gantry".

Television introduced another generation to Jones in the four-year hit series "The Partridge Family," in which she was the matriarch of the family's successful rock and roll band.

Jones has headlined at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas and has made numerous summer tours starring in favorite musicals such as "The Sound of Music" and "Show Boat". In 1977, she married her second huscomedian Marty band. Ingels.

Shaun, Patrick and Rvan Cassidy, Shirley's three children with late actor Jack Cassidy, all work within the entertainment industry.

In the past few years, Jones has been busy touring the world, performing in concert. She has also accepted some fabulous guest appearances on popular network shows such as "The Carey Show," Drew "Sabrina, the Teenage and "That 70's Witch" Show".

Don't miss Shirley Jones Friday and Saturday November 28th and 29th at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis! Must be 21 to attend.

How to Shop for the Perfect Holiday

Founder of the Lillian Vernon catalogs

ift giving is a combination of art and science requires that careful thought and planning. Searching for the perfect gift is fun for some, but for others it can be frustrating. These tips will make your holiday gift giving more enjoyable and less of a chore:

• During the year, think about the types of gifts your family and friends want and need. Keep a master shopping file or notebook as a resource for information on gift recipients, including clothing sizes, hobbies, personal tastes and preferences. The earlier you shop, the better. When you see the perfect gift on sale, buy it on the spot. If it's a bargain, it will most likely be gone. Sales also help you budget your money and keep down your credit card bills. If you wait until the last minute, you'll have to settle for what's available. Remember, the most popular products, sizes and colors often sell out.

 Maintain a gift closet to keep

last-minute gifts and assorted greeting cards.

Take advantage of services offered for free or for a nominal fee, like personalization, personal shoppers, gift certificates, gift registries and gift-wrapping.

PRE-WRAPPED GIFT BOXES can save you time this holiday season. They are available online at www.lillianvernonproducts.com or by calling (800) 901-8758.

 Sentimental and personal gifts are always special and will be cherished for years. Write your family history or recipes in a decorative bound book, or restore old family photos and mementos and place them in frames or an album with dates and cap-

• Give a gift that gives back. Shop in museum stores and from retailers who pledge a percentage of their profits to a charity. You might also make a contribution to a nonprofit organization in someone's name.

For a do-it-yourself touch, buy decorative baskets or tins and fill them with soaps, lotions, body gels, potpourri, candles, candy or homemade cookies. Make a specially prepared meal hosted at your home.

• În a small but visible way, something as simple and elegant as a person's name or initials sets them apart from everyone else and makes a statement about their individuality. A personalized gift shows you took extra time and care in your choice. There are personalized gifts to suit every personality, interest and age. Personalization takes extra time, so shop early.

• If you are unsure what to buy, a gift certificate is always a practical choice. Gift certificates can be purchased for stores, restaurants, movie theaters, malls, mail order catalogs and online retailers. You can buy most gift certificates online to save time. Wrap them in a gift box so they will be even more of a surprise.

• Always check the retailer's return policy. Some offer an unconditional money-back guarantee with no time restriction — perfect if you shop far in advance.

After making your purchase, save your receipt, packaging and shipping box in case you have to return the gift.

• Wrap gifts as soon as you buy them. You'll wrap more carefully and have more time to enjoy the holiday. Dress up your gift-wrapping with a personalized ornament, a candy cane, bells or holly berries. For a gift that won't fit under a tree, like a bicycle or an appliance, put a picture into a card or gift box.

Once you know how to plan and shop for gifts, you can put these skills to good use all year long.

Learn the Secrets of Gifted Gift-Giving

To some people, the most difficult aspect of the holidays is finding the perfect gift for friends or loved ones. Not every person is easy to buy for, and hours spent searching the stores can cause even the most steadfast holiday shopper to throw in the towel.

The best gifts share several common characteristics: appropriateness, perceptiveness, selflessness, generosity, indulgence, surprise and evo-

• Appropriateness — The perfect gift is fitting for the occasion and the relationship. A tin of homemade Christmas cookies coworker would be a thoughtful gesture. • Perceptiveness — A gift that reflects the giver's attention to the tastes and preferences of the recipient is preferred.

In essence, it's a compliment that says, "When I saw this, I couldn't help but think of you!"

• Selflessness — The giver should only desire to please the recipient - expecting nothing in return. This "noreturn" policy includes any satisfaction the giver anticipates from the observations of others about the extravagance of the gift or the generosity of the giver.

Generosity Resourceful gifts reveal how special the recipient is to the giver. Often, endowments of the giver's time, effort or creativity are the most generous and memorable characteristics of a gift.

• Indulgence - It pampers, it humors, it appeases, it satisfies - the perfect gift says there is something extraordinary about the recipient in the eyes of the

• Surprise — Careful and discreet planning can catch . even the most suspecting recipient off guard. A sponta-

It's important to teach children that a true holiday gift comes from the heart of the giver and is intended to symbolize the love and caring between people. With all the commercialism around the holidays, it helps to remind kids that presents are just things, and real holiday gifts are those which come from the heart.

Remembering that gifts arise from the true spirit of giving, and don't have to cost a lot of money can change the focus of the season for both and adults. children Sometimes kids just need a little help coming up with ideas; here are a couple you can share with your children in the weeks before the holi-

• Talk to children about why people exchange gifts. This can help them undertance of giving and receiving gifts. Encourage them to think about the holiday tradition and why they want to give something to people they care about.

• Talk to children about what they want to give - not just about what they want to get. Grandparents are sure to be charmed by a gift of artwork from small children, as would patients in a local hospital, who could perhaps use cheer. holiday Encourage the young ones to paint a picture or make a

• Suggest children consider giving a gift that lasts all year. If there are military families in your area, schoolage children could "adopt" a member of the armed services as a pen pal to correspond with throughout the year.

• Another simple gift idea is helping out around the house or garage. Cindy Garcia found an inexpensive new, high-tech product called The Glosser that she bought for her boys Adam, 9, and Andrew, 5, to give to their father, Carlos.

Five to a pack, The Glosser washes and waxes a car without scratching the paint. It's so easy to use that younger children can even use it. So not only are Adam and Andy going to give their dad the product as a present, they're also going to wash and wax his car for him as part of their gift. If there's anybody around your house who is as particular about the appearance of their car as Carlos, The Glosser is a gift he or she will enjoy, too. It washes, pol-

The patented construction provides "give" so that particles on the vehicle's finish are encapsulated in the unique non-woven microfiber and moved away from the surface, keeping the car's paint finish safe from scratches.

It also removes dust and dirt from the instrument panel, console, interior vinyl or leather, doorjambs, engine compartment and chrome or rubber fixtures, and it's compact enough to fit in the glovebox or under a seat. Available at Wal-Mart, Kmart, Pep Boys, Auto Zone and Advance Auto as well as many automotive and hardware stores, The Glosser usually sells for less than $6 per 5-pack. For more information, call (800) 654-3933.

The holiday season offers a chance to help children learn to become more generous toward others and more appreciative of the generosity they receive all year long.

New Games Promote Learning Year-Rour

ere they come the holidays and the mid-year break that kids have long been waiting for. This is their time to unwind and forget all about school. Sounds good, right? Teachers don't think

According to studies, over the winter holidays, children can forget as much as 30 percent of what they learned in the classroom, and this number jumps to 80 percent over the summer vacations.

"It's called backsliding," and it makes back-to-school that much harder for students and their teachers," says Bob McDuff, an education expert whose own 24year career in the classroom was marked by frustration due to backsliding. Since then, he's dedicated himself to devising solutions to keep curriculum at the top of kids' minds year-round, without them noticing.

"Of course, these breaks are important for the kids," he says. "But that doesn't mean that they should switch off their learning for weeks or months at a time. I like to compare the kids coming back to school to athletes who didn't bother with their training programs during the off season. They show up at training camp out of shape. It's the same principle."

So, what's a parent to do? After all, almost as much as kids, moms and dads crave the breaks from homework

To answer that question, McDuff dedicated three years to developing the award-winning McWiz Junior game to keep children ages 6 to 12 flexing their brains year round.

The game features 1,200 questions based on standard curriculum for grades one through six. Each game card but the truth is they really love to learn. And they especially want to show off what they know," he laughs. "Make learning a hoot and you'll be doing your children, your grandchildren and their teachers a big favor." As it turns out, the same principle and reasoning apply to children of all ages. Recent studies show that adults remain more alert and healthy if they engage in challenging and stimulating mental activities. McWiz, the teen and adult version of McWiz Junior, is a new kind of question-and-answer game based on actual knowledge, rather than trivia, and designed to entertain and educate simultaneously. It features 4,200 stimulating questions in five categories: science, sports, geography and history, the arts and "trash," which covers a variety of subjects including proverbs, word games, publicity, cars and more.

New Family Friendly Games Make It Easy for Everyone to Enjoy Video Game Fun

ideo games and computers are a fact of life for kids today. As children begin interacting with electronic equipment at younger ages, parents are challenged to more closely monitor the games their children are playing.

As video games are sure to be at the top of this year's holiday wish lists, experts recommend the following guidelines for parents to keep in mind when selecting video games for their family:

• Check the game content and skill level requirements by carefully examining the packaging to see if the game is recommended for the child's age group.

• Read the content descriptor on the back of the product's packaging and examine the pictures and text to get an idea of what the title is about.

· Before making a purchase, be sure that the software is compatible with your gaming system.

One newly released title for the holiday season, Disney's Extreme Skate Adventure, represents a safe choice for parents. The game marks the first time Buzz Lightyear and Woody from Disney/Pixar's "Toy Story 2,"

Rafeeki go for a spin around Pride Rock, while Young Tarzan and Terk skate around Tarzan's Treehouse and Buzz Lightyear and Woody have a ball at Pizza Planet as they interact with the other characters in those

The game also addresses the necessary fun factor by offering players skateboards that resemble bamboo rafts, frying pans and other nontraditional items. Beyond the skateboard challenge, there are puzzles to solve, secret areas to explore and collectibles to find on each level of the game.

The PlayStation®2 computer entertainment system, Xbox® video game system and Nintendo GameCube® platforms feature 12 playable movie characters to choose from and diverse gameplay modes, including: Adventure Mode, which lets players complete goals as a favorite Disney character or real world character from the Create-A-Skater feature; and Multiplayer which allows for split-screen competition with friends.

The Nintendo Game Boy® Advance version features sixplayable Disney characters to choose from and three gameplay modes, including: Story, which lets players unlock new levels by completing goals; Single Session, to achieve high scores; and Multiplayer.

The game is available at Toys 'R' Us, K-Mart, Best Buy, Electronic Boutiques and other stores where video games are sold.

Holiday Gift Ideas for Teachers

Like the rush of students at the afternoon bell, the sight of a student bringing a gift to a teacher is a perennial scholastic scene. But all too often these gifts end up in their basement or the garbage can in the teachers'

Erica Stavis, a 25-year-old

middle school teacher in New York City, has received an assortment of gifts each holiday season, including makeup kits and candles. Recently, she received something she described as a "snowball dolphin blue thing with a mini surfboard on it" that had "Myrtle Beach" printed on it. Stavis says that while she appreciated the sentiment, the gift was just "really funny" instead of being meaningful.

Experts suggest parents and students put extra thought into the gifts they give teachers to express their gratitude for a half-year welldone. Some gifts for teachers are perfect for wearing in the classroom. What is better attire for male teachers than neckties with patterns featuring school books or crayons? Or for the female teacher who likes to accessorize, check out scarves with similar patterns.

Choose Toys That Put a Child's

f the phrase "construction toy" conjures up images of a few blocks or some old-fashioned logs, then you're in for a surprise this holiday season. The new generation of construction toys feature wildly imaginative scenarios and astonishing engineering, and promise tons of cutting-edge fun. Kids are noticing these modern toys, making them a hot property in stores across the country.

"Parents like construction toys because they offer clear educational benefits while encouraging creative play. Kids like our products because they're both exciting and engaging," says Susan Spiegel, of construction toy company Mega Bloks. "We prove every day that an educational toy can be cool and Spiegel points to the company's Alien Agency line as an example of the winning approach.

'Here's a toy line that features UFOs, way-out aliens, gas stations that morph into secret science labs and all sorts of other amazing stuff, and it's all powered purely by a child's imagination. So the kid thinks it's cool, and the parent knows it's educational. Everyone's happy." The toys are designed for children age 6 and older.

Here's a look at some "new generation" construction toys for boys and girls available for this holiday season:

Mega Play. Big blocks mean big fun for little kids, with castles, fantasy homes and even a Disney Princess Palace only a few snaps away. Children age 3 and up can create their own play areas with plenty of room inside for toys and friends.

Classic Toy Is a 'Building Block' of Playing and Learning for Preschoolers

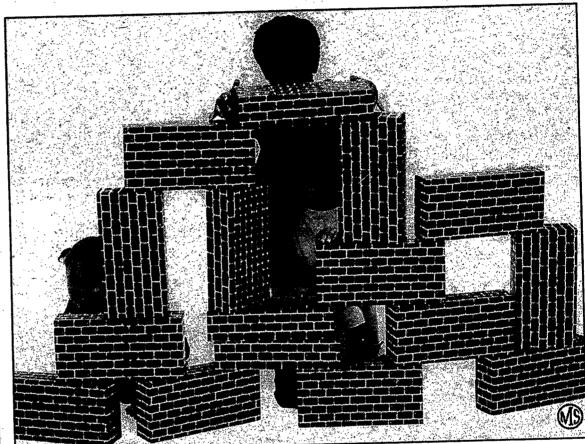

arly childhood eduexperts believe that the years from birth to age 8 are a critical learning period for children. While there's no shortage of toys and toy stores, it can be difficult to find holiday gifts that will both entertain and stimulate young children.

Building blocks are an essential part of play, learning and development for all children. They enable children to explore and discover how they can control their environment and manipulate the objects within it.

Skills that preschoolers learn through block building include problem solving, counting, sorting, perceptual, motor and memory skills, and cooperative play. Dealing with the challenges of block building makes the "wheels turn" in children's heads, giving them infinite possibilities for improvising or creating. When something does not balance or look right to them, they will try constructing it differently. As children build, they develop and practice their spatial skills, making mental and visual estimates of space and deciding which blocks they need next to continue building their structures. By exploring and discovering what works and what doesn't, your children are engaging in hands-on problem solving and becoming divergent thinkers.

While blocks can be made of many materials, corrugated cardboard building blocks are ideal for preschoolers because they are lightweight enough for even the smallest toddler to carry and stack, yet strong enough to stand or

Because they are large (the largest is 12 inches by 6 inches by 3 inches), small children can feel successful building life-size structures. ImagiPLAY's blocks are amazingly strong and feature a water-resistant coating for cleanups. Their ImagiBRICKS® Giant Building Blocks have won numerous awards including a Parents' Choice Classic Award and Dr. Toy Classic.

Special needs children also benefit from block play using large corrugated cardboard building blocks. ImagiPLAY's award-winning blocks were recently evaluated by the National Lekotek Institute, which found them appropriate for children with special needs. Blocks build perceptual, motor and memory skills. Squatting to pick up a block or reaching to place it on top of a structure gives children meaningful practice in gross movement. motor Additionally, this toy provides muscular stimulation through stretching, joint compression and movement.

Because the blocks are lightweight, children with low muscle strength will have an easy time picking them up and moving them, yet they are sturdy enough to hold up to rugged play. They create a "large load" in a wagon, yet are not too heavy to haul. In addition, part of the fun of building blocks is knocking them down. The sound of tumbling cardboard blocks has a muffled, quiet sound that is easier on ears and nerves than wooden blocks, which can be star-tions and sentiments that make Christmas memories sparkle, and it's often the handmade presents that are truly cherished. Handcrafted ornaments, for example, are treasured for years, and with today's easy-to-use products, custom ornaments can be made quickly and inexpensively. With the following crafting tips from Krylon, a manufacturer of aerosol paints, this season you'll be singing "fa, la, la, la, la" instead of "bah humbug" as you create a charming holiday gift.

You can decorate ornaments for everyone on your list in an afternoon with just a little planning and the right materials. To start, make a list of the special people in your life you'd like to remember this season friends, coworkers, teachers, sitters, grandparents, aunts and uncles are just a few to consider. Then, with list in hand, visit your local craft store. Clear glass ornaments are widely available and an excellent choice for decorating. Most craft stores and discount chains carry the traditional spheres, as well as bells, hearts, stars and other shapes. With spray-on glass paint, you can paint and decorate a dozen or more glass ornaments in just a few hours. If you want to paint a lot of ornaments quickly, choose one paint and color for assembly-line production. If you have a little more time, select colors and finishes that match the recipients' individ-, ual tastes.

Before painting, clean the ornaments thoroughly and let dry. (Protect your work area with newspapers for fast cleanup.) To keep a grip on the ornaments, insert a long thin dowel, hatpin or chopstick into the open end and insert the other end in a block of Styrofoam®. Carefully read the instructions on the can and you're ready to go.

Once the ornaments are painted and dry, let your schedule dictate the next step. For a fast finish, personalize each one with a Krylon Leafing Pen, tie a pretty ribbon at the top, and you're done. Or consider adding a few flourishes with sequins, acrylic gemstones and beads. If you have a little more time, create patterns on the ornaments by masking them with shapes cut from Contact paper, painting the ornaments a second color, and carefully removing the Contact paper after the paint

Still too pressed for time? Then personalize purchased ornaments by adding the recipient's name and the date with a Krylon Leafing Pen in gold, silver or copper. Spray lightly with Krylon Glitter Spray for shimmering gold, silver, green, red or multicolor highlights. And that's it a personalized ornament created in less than five minutes. Turn on the Christmas carols, heat up the cocoa and indulge your creative side this holiday season. Visit www.krylon.com for more information and more stepby-step instructions.

Who would have believed more money is spent on video games than movies? That the video game business is bigger than amusement parks? Just about any gamer, for starters.

Chances are, someone on your shopping list is a video game fan. Nyko has an aisle full of video and computer game accessories that are sure to bring holiday cheer to your favorite gamer.

Games like "EverQuest" and "Socom: U.S. Navy Seals" have catapulted the popularity of online gaming to an entirely new level. But ask any fan and you'll find that one of the major hindrances to getting online is that most people don't have their game console and a computer with broadband modem in the same room. Always on the cutting edge, Nyko has developed the Net Extender for PlayStation2, Xbox and the PC. Give 'Green' This Holiday Season

The holiday shopping season has arrived! Have you made your list and checked it twice?

No doubt that many of the gifts on your loved ones' holiday wish lists include the latest and greatest in wireless gadgets and cordless electronic products, including laptops, cell phones, digital cameras, MP3 players, cordless power tools, remote-controlled toys and more.

But did you also know that many of these products are powered by rechargeable batteries that can and should be recycled when they can no longer hold a charge?

The Rechargeable Battery Corporation Recycling service organization dedicatrecycling, can help. Just remember: if your rechargeable battery will no longer hold a charge, don't throw it in the country. Participants include Best Buy, The Home Depot, Target, RadioShack, Staples, Wal-Mart and more. Call (800) 8-BATTERY or visit www.rbrc.org to find the nearest drop-off location.

To get the most out of all of "batteries season's this required" gifts, follow these simple tips from RBRC:

Follow the charging guidelines provided by the manufacturer. There are specific initial battery charging times for each individual product before using it for the first time.

• Never return a fullycharged battery to the charger for an "extra boost." This will shorten the life of the battery Always let a discharged battery cool to room temperature before recharging.

• Recharge batteries only when they are near to fully discharged.

Make a "green" gift to the earth that lasts all year by reminding your loved ones to recycle their rechargeable batteries. Whether it's time for holiday cheer, spring cleaning or back to school, all you need to remember is "If it's rechargeable, it's recyclable!"

Jewelry Trends Promise Sparkle and Style

THE ULTIMATE GIFT this season is an engagement ring. Superfit's platinum and diamond-bezel set, marquise-shaped diamond is vintage inspired, with an old-world feel.

THE SEA COAST ECHO meaningful heirbrooch. loom chandelier earrings that make a mediocre holiday outfit spectacular, and all the things that create smiles are appreciated even more during the holiday season. This year, those things that grant pleasure or symbolize important relationships are to be treasured and celebrated. "A gift of fine jewelry is a statement of love, whether it's self-love and platonic love respect. between dear friends, familial love or passionate, romantic love," says Helena Krodel, media liaison of the Jewelry Information Center, a nonprofit trade association for

of the hottest jewelry trends this season, from the experts at the Jewelry Information

Quick Change Artists -Jewelry with a hidden agenda can be worn more than one way for the holiday season. A bejeweled pendant becomes a shoulder brooch. A gold link belt doubles to make a necklace, and for those with the means, an ever-so-thin multi-strand platinum necklace can become two bracelets. Australian South Sea pearls look distinguished on a platinum chain yet sexy on a leather strap. Tahitian pearls, the grey-green sultry sea jewels that she wears on a chain, can work for him on a masculine rubber cord. Or how about a four-part trans-Following is a look at some formable earrings that start with crisp white diamond studs. Add a diamond and platinum "vine" for length and size. Finish the look with a briolette drop in a colorful gemstone like citrine, peridot or garnet.

Period Drama - Many iewelry designers today are employing motifs or materials that recall yesteryear. Victorian influences include intricate gold work, feminine colors and nature motifs, especially flowers. Katherine Hepburn fans will yearn for 1940s retro-style jewelry that is oversized yet feminine. Strands of white Australian pearls and gray Tahitians are a tribute to American style icons like Grace Kelly. Today's fashions playfully nod to the 1980s with chunky, overstated jewelry that complements off-theshoulder tops.

Simply Ear-resistible -This season, the ears and neck have the spotlight, enhanced by dramatic earrings. Chandeliers are the perfect gift of the season; there is a pair for every lifestyle, budget and personality. Empress-worthy diamonds and architectural styles that dangle low and dust the chin reign. Pagoda or triangle-shaped earrings with tiny briolettes complement chinoiserie styles like kimono tops. To correspond with the black-and-white fashions this season, there are pearl drop earrings, whichcombine stormy black Tahitianwith pure white Australian SouthSea pearls.

Color as Anti-Depressant Psychologists believe surrounding oneself with color can stimulate emotions and feelings. Jewelry that incorporates light green gems evokes calm while bright green gems are uplifting. Green gemstones that span the spectrum include peridot, emerald, jade (often intricately carved), amazonite, fluorite, appatite and pistachio Tahitian pearls. Jewelry that features calming blue gemstones such as lapis lazuli, sapphire, iolite, chalcedony. tanzanite, Peruvian opal, aquamarine and blue topaz are top gift picks. More glamorous types will love red gemstones, like garnet, ruby and red coral, which are known to escalate the pulse and symbolize vibrancy and passion. And never undervalue white, the hottest color of the season. Icy white diamonds, creamy white South Sea pearls and precious platinum symbolize eternity, peace and purity, and are refreshing during the dreary winter months.

Graphic Detail — As fashion flaunts geometric shapes and Pucci-inspired prints, the latest jewelry features circles, crosses, squares, hearts, stars and spirals. Collars and cuffs add flair, while pendants and charms are symbols of personal meaning. Give yellow gold pendants on link chains that can be layered or strung together to form a charm necklace. Cocktail rings with a pearl in a swirl or pavé colored gemstones are always popular. A diamond on a woman's left hand symbolizes eternal love, and a selfpurchased "right hand ring" is a declaration of independt's that time of year when thoughts turn to gift giving. There isn't a woman out there who isn't thrilled with the thought of Santa's helper stuffing her stocking with glittering jewelry. But how do you know what to buy?

"Look at the jewelry she's already wearing," says Amber Michelle, editor-inchief of Jewelry Connoisseur, a magazine on jewelry design and trends, available at Barnes & Noble and Borders bookstores nationwide. "Compliment her on a piece she is wearing and ask her who designed it."

According to Michelle, jewelry is part of fashion. "This season's hottest styles include the diamond right hand ring or jewelry with unusual pearls — such as stick, coin or keshi pearls."

She offers a few more pointers to help gift givers choose the perfect jewelry present this holiday season.

• What kinds of metal does she prefer? Is she wearing silver, yellow or white gold or platinum? Does she mix white and yellow metals? Try a piece in two-tone metals?

 What gemstones does she like? You can never go wrong with diamonds, but some women prefer colored gemstones. If you know your recipient's favorite color, you can always buy a piece of jewelry that showcases a stone in that color.

 What's her personal style? If her style is contemporary and modern, then chances are she will prefer sleek designs with clean lines and geometric shapes. If she has a more romantic style, animals, hearts, flowers or the sea? A beautiful charm bracelet in silver or gold would be an ideal choice.

• Go window shopping with your unsuspecting recipient. Pay attention to the items she admires. Go back and purchase them.

• If there is a jewelry store that she frequents, ask a sales associate who knows her taste for some suggestions or if he or she knows of an item that she's admired recently.

Whether you're after earrings, a necklace, bracelet, watch or brooch, be sure to visit a jewelry merchant that has a good reputation and has been in business for a while. If you need to make a return or exchange a piece, or have the item repaired, you can be sure the store will be around.

According to Michelle, there are several classic pieces that are ideal for every iewelry wardrobe, including diamond solitaire earrings, a diamond solitaire necklace or a diamond bracelet. For those who love color, she suggests gemstone bead necklaces or bracelets that come in a rainbow of luscious shades. "Daring women who love all-out glamour and glitz will be delighted with chandelier earrings, perfect for a night on the town," she says.

If you're still stuck on what to do, "just ask her what she wants," Michelle advises:

An Ideal Holiday Gift for New Parents

Imagine that you could give the gift of a guardian angel to parents welcoming a new child. That's the premise of Marianne Richmond's book "The Gift of an Angel."

The 40-page hardcover book is a wonderful gift idea for parents celebrating a baby's first holiday season. With lyrical prose and beautiful illustrations, the book recounts the moments before a baby's birth, when God chooses a gentle-hearted angel to be the child's lifelong guardian and friend. The last page features a place to record the baby's name and birth date, making it a treasured keepsake.

"The book really comes from the heart," says Richmond. "It offers parents the chance to believe that there's a special angel watching over their little one."

"The Gift of an Angel" has also inspired a companion audio CD and baby journal.

The CD offers a collection of original works and favorites by composer Steven C. Anderson. The journal features 80 pages to record treasured moments and milestones.

Published by Marianne Richmond Studios (ISBN 0-97414675-2-8), "The Gift of an Angel" retails for $15.95. The journal retails for $15.95 and the CD retails for $14.95. All are available at select book and gift stores.

Diverse Families Can Enrich Children's Lives

traditional ideas about race, prejudice and social values were challenged during the 1960s, there has been a steady growth of interracial relationships and interracial inAmerica. Research by the U.S. Census Bureau indicates that the number of children living in mixed-race families has been increasing during the past two decades. There are an estimated 700,000 multicultural families and almost 5 million multicultural children in the United States, according to statistics from the Ohio State University Family and Consumer Sciences program.

Such diversity can have many benefits for children who experience two cultures in their own home; however, most parents have strong feelings about how they want to raise their children and how their children should behave — a fact which can create stressful situations for parents who come from different backgrounds.

"[Remember that] your spouse or parenting partner has a cultural background, too, and may have different traditions," says Jane Kostelc, child development specialist at Parents as Teachers National Center, an early childhood parent education program based in St. Louis. "Blending cultural perspectives to nurture your child is an important part of becoming a family," she says.

Enrich children's lives with cultural traditions. These traditions are what bond a family to their heritage by reflecting ethnic, racial or national backgrounds. According to Parents as Teachers, learning about your family's cul-dren a sense of identity that extends beyond the immediate family by helping them to realize that they are part of a larger community. And helping children understand their own heritage is the first step to teaching tolerance for others. "Traditional celebrations provide an opportunity and a context for making those cultural connections," Kostelc says.

It is essential that your children understand both parents' traditions, so it's important to make an effort to bring both cultures into the home. A simple way to incorporate two sets of traditions in your child's life is to read folk tales from both cultures and talk about what you learned from each story. Connecting with grandparents or older relatives is another great way to promote your child's social and emotional development.

Also, look to opportunities for children to take part in the traditions of other cultures within the community and discuss about how the celebrations differ. Holidays are a great time to find cultural activities in the community, but remember that cultural learning can occur at any time of the year.

Blending cultural perspectives can be tricky, but practicing both parents' traditions will open your child's world and provide her with lifelong memories. Parents as Teachers National Center offers free information about sharing cultural traditions online at www.patnc.org or by calling (866) PAT4YOU.

Giving books as gifts is always a good idea, but it's not always easy to know what to look for. Before you go shopping, be sure to take a few minutes to verify the recipient's tastes. For example, you may both share an interest in American history, but your interests may diverge in time periods. It's also a good idea to check how much your intended likes a particular topic. This may help you decide whether to purchase a special edition hardbound copy or a simple, less expensive paperback.

You want to look your best in front of your friends, family and colleagues, no matter how late you've been out, how many hours you've spent at the mall or how many treats you've eaten. That's no excuse to look worn out or not fit into that slinky new black dress. It is possible to put your best self forward from head to toe - at any event. The following simple tips offer an easy way to look good this season and the year to come:

• Drink like a fish. Water is probably the single most important trick to weight loss. By making you feel fuller, it helps prevent food cravings as it flushes out unhealthy toxins.

• Forget about drastic starvation diets or "magic" pills with stimulants. Many are not only ineffective but stress level.

• Don't skip meals. This is one of the most popular stumbling blocks to weight loss. When you skip meals, your body assumes it's starving and slows down its metabolism to conserve energy. That's why you should feed your body every three to four hours.

• Try herbal body wraps. Safe and natural, they quickly shape and contour your body by detoxifiing the skin and fat cells which may result in inch loss. They also also have unhealthy effects provide a relaxing and alter- A lack of essential vitamins train sets are available at mass-market nationwide.

Aspiring engineers can also build their collections one at a time with individual accessories from Bachmann. The company has carefully reproduced 11 unique and memorable residents of the Island of Sodor, including Thomas, Sir Topham Hatt, James the Red Engine, Cranky the Crane and other railway friends. (Percy and James the Red Engine also feature moving eyes for added excitement and play value.)

First introduced more than 50 years ago in The Railway Series by the Rev. W. Awdry, Thomas the Tank Engine is a timeless classic, introducing generations of preschoolers to the adventure of train play. Thomas and his friends have been featured in books, videos, DVDs and interactive games. Bachmann's HO scale train sets will please the Thomas fans and hobbyists on anyone's holiday gift list, allowing enthusiasts of all ages to create their own thrilling adventures.

USM Chamber Ensemble presents holiday music

University Mississippi Chamber Ensemble will present holiday selections from both the classical and popular arena Dec. 7 at 7 p.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club.

Southern Opera and These will include selections from Sondheim's "Into the Woods" and Mozart's "The Magic Flute," two shows featured in the 2003-2004 Southern Opera and Musical Theatre season.

Both opera and musical theater have a rich history at USM. The performances have been numerous and varied. USM has produced everything from musicals such as "L'il Abner" and "The Music Man" to full scale operas. The diversity is evidence of the faculty's continuing commitment to educating and challenging the performers and the listeners.

The Southern Opera and Musical Theatre is under the direction of Dr. Maryann Kyle. Dr. Gregory Fuller is director of choral activities.

Gift Ideas Add Warmth to Home Offices

hether a home office is used primarily for business or the family, there's one thing everyone can agree on: Creature comforts make any work space inviting and pleasant.

This year, think about increasing your favorite home office users' comfort level with gift ideas like the highting — Good lighting is essential for comfort and health. Task lighting, provided by desk or spot lamps, can reduce eye strain while making a design statement.

Seating — A comfortable, ergonomic chair should be the centerpiece of any home office. Look for at least four, if not five, legs on wheels and an adjustable back, arms and seats. Durable fabric is important, especially if the chair will be used by children

Art — Wall art is pleasing to the eye and adds warmth to an office. Consider the person's taste and the room's decor when choosing art for a home office. Family photographs with creative frames are another option for home office walls. Don't forget the impact of art placed on desktops and shelves.

Clocks — Although the current date and time appears on all computer screens, a wall or desk clock can make a decorative statement.

Audio — Upgrade a computer's audio with a surround-sound system like Aspire Digital's AD-2100PLUS. Computer games can be experienced in rich, powerful surround sound with the system. It connects easily to a PC or Mac and converts the computer's two-channel sound to rich surround sound. The system includes a DVD player and doubles as a receiverless home theater system. Speaker components include front and rear mini-tower speakers and a center speaker capable of handling 500 watts peak power. A 130-watt powered subwoofer powers the speaker system and provides 5.1 Dolby digital audio output directly from the DVD player or 5.1 speaker output from the computer via the audio cable included with the system. The system's sleek, ultra-modern design blends beautifully with other office furnishings.

Make Sure Pets Have a Healthy Holiday

No matter how you choose to involve your pet in the holidays, there are some basic guidelines for keeping them safe and happy. As a service to pet owners and their animal companions, the ASPCA issues a yearly list of holiday safety suggestions. Among the tips:

• Don't give your pets leftovers. Abrupt changes in your pet's diet can cause severe stomach distress, leading to vomiting and diarrhea. If you want to give your dog or cat a taste of the holiday, serve them plain small portions of meat without sauces or spices and fresh veggies.

• Do set aside a safe and quiet space for your pet during the commotion of the season, especially if you are expecting guests. Crowds can frighten many animals.

• Don't trim your home with poisonous plants and other decorations that can be harmful to your pets. Holly, ivy, mistletoe, and poinsettias can be poisonous, and candles and loose wiring can attract curious pets.

• Do let your cat or dog romp through wrapping paper and boxes, but remove ribbons, yarn, and aluminum foil first.

• Don't make your tree an attractive climbing post for your cat. Position your tree on a wide, flat and stable base, and anchor the tree to a window or wall using fishing line. Always be sure to decorate with animal-safe items such as dried flowers, pine cones, or fabric and wood ornaments and avoid using popcorn strands, ribbons, tinsel, and glass ornaments, which can all be deadly if swallowed.

• Do provide fresh water for your pet at all times and be sure to keep cats and dogs away from Christmas tree water, which can contain fertilizers and bacteria that can upset your pet's stomach.

Whether you're shopping for your children or others you love like your own, buying holiday gifts for the little ones in your life can be exhausting and stressful. Where do you begin?

Getting organized before you reach for that credit card can go a long way toward making your holiday shopping easier and more enjoyable. Follow these tips to keep your sanity (and budget) intact through the holiday season.

Plan ahead - Remember, as the holiday season grows hectic, so does your schedule. Start planning before you open your first party invitation. Take the time to find out opening and closing times for your favorite stores; most tend to have longer hours during the holiday sea-

To avoid crowds, it's best to shop early in the day, avoiding peak times, like lunchtime and weekends, when stores can become crowded and overwhelming.

Make a detailed list -Follow Santa's lead here and make a list, then check it twice. Write down the names of all the children on your gift list, their ages and one hobby or interest. Then try to come up with a few gift ideas that would appeal to several of Browse online - Need some great gift ideas? Most online toy retailers offer reviews and ratings of their merchandise, which can help you make shopping in a store faster and easier. If you decide to buy online, many sites offer gift-wrapping and several delivery options.

Get them something they need - Toys are great, but the holidays are a perfect time to stock up on fun and useful items, too. Colorful mittens or wacky socks make toasty winter gifts. Another great inexpensive gift idea is a battery-powered tooth-brush. Look for kid-friendly brushes like the new LOONEY TUNESTM and ticipate in a local charity toy BIONICLETM battery-powered toothbrushes Colgate. They make great last-minute stocking stuffers because you don't have to brave a crowded toy store to find them - just go to your local drugstore, grocery store or mass merchandiser.

Let them choose - If you are really stumped or simply out of time, buy a gift certificate from a toy, music or book retailer. If you live nearby, part of your gift can be taking the child to the store to select his gift. A gift certificate also ensures you're not giving something they've already received, and it enables you to stay within your budget.

They say it is more fun to give than to receive during the holidays. If you follow these tips to stay relaxed, organized and focused, it will
